

The device is threaded into the opening; its wings are spread and cinched snugly and disconnected from the catheter. The closed PFO soon will heal permanently.

